

Bio for Gary Sternberg

Gary Sternberg is currently the Publications Coordinator for the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Office of Inspector General. He has been with that organization for almost 9 years, and works out of its Philadelphia office. As the Publications Coordinator, Gary edits reports and manages report publication. He is also the Web Content Coordinator for his organization. Gary previously held a writer-editor position for 16 years with the U.S. Naval Audit Service. Gary started out his career as a newspaper reporter and editor, and also worked for a public relations firm. He graduated from Temple University with a B.A. in Journalism.